

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cooling apparatus has a housing having housed therein an axial flow fan, a display panel located on the front side of the housing, and a control circuit assembly mounted inside the housing and adapted to drive the axial flow fan subject to the temperature level detected, and also to drive an LED display unit of the display panel to indicate the detected temperature level.

5